                                                                It's like we never happened, was it just a lie?
Intro: D
                                                                If what we had was real, how could you be fine?
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                'Cause I'm not fine at all
                                                                [Refrão]
                                                                I remember the day you told me you were leaving
I drove by all the places we used to hang out getting wasted
                                                                I remember the make-up running down your face
I thought about our last kiss, how it felt the way you tasted
                                                                And the dreams you left behind you didn't need them
And even though your friends tell me you're doing fine
                                                                Like every single wish we ever made
Are you somewhere feeling lonely even though he's right beside
                                                                I wish that I could wake up with amnesia
When he says those words that hurt you, do you read the ones I
                                                                And forget about the stupid little things
Wrote you?

                                                                And the memories I never can escape
Sometimes I start to wonder, was it just a lie?

                                                                Cause I'm not fine at all
If what we had was real, how could you be fine?
                                                                [Ponte]
Cause I'm not fine at all
[Refrão]
I remember the day you told me you were leaving
I remember the make-up running down your face
And the dreams you left behind you didn't need them
                                                                I remember the day you told me you were leaving
Like every single wish we ever made
                                                               I remember the make-up running down your face
I wish that I could wake up with amnesia
                                                                And the dreams you left behind you didn?t need them
And forget about the stupid little things
                                                                Like every single wish we ever made
Like the way it felt to fall asleep next to you
                                                                I wish that I could wake up with amnesia
And the memories I never can escape
                                                                And forget about the stupid little things
Cause I'm not fine at all
                                                                Like the way it felt to fall asleep next to you
                                                               And the memories I never can escape

                                                                Cause I'm not fine at all
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                I'm really not fine at all
The pictures that you sent me they're still living in my phone
I admit I like to see them, I admit I feel alone
                                                                Tell me this is just a dream
And all my friends keep asking why I'm not around
It hurts to know you're happy, yeah, it hurts that you've
                                                                'Cause I'm really not fine at all
It's hard to hear your name when I haven't seen you in so long
