They would yell, they would scream, they were fighting it out
She would hope, she would pray, she was waiting it out
Holding on to a dream, watch you watch as its walls fall down

Am
Sharp words like knives, they were cutting her down
F
Shattered glass like the past it's a memory now
G F
Holding on to a dream, watch you watch as its walls fall down

C G
Hey mum, hey dad, when did this end?
Am
When did you lose your happiness?

F
I'm here alone inside of this broken home
C G
Who's right, who's wrong, who really cares?
Am
The fault, the blame, the pain's still there
F
I'm here alone inside of this broken home
Am
This broken home

Am F
Wrote it down on the walls, she was screaming it out
G
Made it clear, she's still here, are you listening out
F
Just a ghost in the halls feeling empty, they're vacant now

Am F
All the battles, all the wars, all the time that you fought
G
She's the scar, she's the bruises she's the pain that you brought
F
There was life, there was love like a light and it's fading out

C G
Hey mum, hey dad, when did this end?

Am
When did you lose your happiness?
F
I'm here alone inside of this broken home
C G
Who's right, who's wrong, who really cares?
Am
The fault, the blame, the pain's still there
F
I'm here alone inside of this broken home
Am
This broken home

Am
You've gotta let it go
F
You're losing all your hope
C
Nothing left to hold
G
Locked out in the cold
Am
You're painting memories
F
Then wash out all the scenes
C
I'm stuck in between
G
A nightmare and lost dreams
C G
Hey mum, hey dad, when did this end?
