

A-Ha - This Alone Is Love

```
Tom: C
                                                               It will make my last breath pass out at dawn,
                                                               Dm Dm(maj7) A A
                                                                                             G G
                                                               It will make my body dissolve out in the blue,
  Gm Dm Gm Dm Gm Dm
                                                                                                                     ooh, for
                                                                       Dm(maj7) A A
                                                               Dm
This alone is love, no small thing
C Cm Dm Gm Dm
                                                                It will make my body dissolve out in the blue,
                                                               you
This alone is love, that my love brings
Gm Dm Gm
And all of us who are travelling by trap doors

C Cm F Dm Gm

infinite and I'm losing every one
                                                               Oh baby, what can we do?
                                                               Gm Dm Gm Dm Gm Dm C Cm F Dm Gm
Our souls are a myriad of wars and I'm losing every one
                                                                       Em(maj7) B
    Dm(maj7) A
                                                               It will make my last breath pass out at dawn,
 Em = Em(maj7) B B A A
                                                                                                                     at dawn
It will make my last breath pass out at dawn,
Dm Dm(maj7) A A G G
                                                    at dawn
                                                               It will make my body dissolve out in the blue,
                                                     Gm
It will make my body dissolve out in the blue, ooh, for
                                                               you
                                                                           Em(maj7) B
 D
                                                                Oh, it will make my last breath pass out at dawn,
        Cm
Oh baby, what can we do?
                                                                       Em(maj7) B B
                                                               It will make my body dissolve out in the blue,
                                                                                                                     ooh, for
This alone is love, no small thing

C

C

C

C

D

G

D

D

Line

C vou
This alone is love, that my love brings
                                                                   Em(maj7) B B A A Am Em Em(maj7) B B A A Am
Gm Dm Gm
And all of us who are travelling by trap doors
                                                               Em Em(maj7) B B A A Am Em Em(maj7) B B A A Am
                                                               Em Em(maj7) B B A A Am Em Em(maj7) B B A A Am Em Em(maj7) B B A A Am
                          Cm
Our souls are a myriad of wars and I'm losing every one
Dm Dm(maj7) A
                                                               Oh baby, what can we do?
```

Acordes

