

Alec Benjamin - If I Killed Someone For You

```
Tom: A
                                                                Just let me explain, no I wouldn't tell you lies
 (forma dos acordes no tom de G )
                                                                I know you'll understand if you let me stay the night
Capostraste na 2ª casa
                                                                [Refrão]
            Sorry that I did this, the blood is on my hands
I stare at my reflection, I don't know who I am
                                                                 Would you love me more? (would you love me more?)
Practice my confession. In case I take the stand
                                                                If I killed someone for you
                                                                Would you hold my hand? (would you hold my hand?)
I'll say I learned my lesson, I'll be a better man
                                                                They're the same that I used
I'm packing up my things and I'm wiping down the walls
                                                                When I killed someone for you
I'm rinsing off my clothes and I'm walking through the halls
                                                                 Would you turn me in? (would you turn me in?)
I did it all for her so I felt nothing at all
                                                                When I say I'm on the loose
I don't know what she'll say, so I'll ask her when she calls
                                                                Would you hide me when (would you hide me when?)
[Refrão]
                                                                My face is on the news?
                                                                'Cuz I killed someone for you
Would you love me more? (would you love me more?)
                                                                [Ponte]
If I killed someone for you
Would you hold my hand? (would you hold my hand?)
                                                                You have to understand that the one I killed is me
They're the same that I used
                                                                Changing what I was for what you wanted me to be
When I killed someone for you
                                                                I followed your direction, did everything you asked
 Would you turn me in? (would you turn me in?)
                                                                I hope it makes you happy, 'cuz there's just no turning back
When I say I'm on the loose
                                                                [Refrão]
Would you hide me when (would you hide me when?)
My face is on the news?
                                                                 Would you love me more? (would you love me more?)
'Cuz I killed someone for you
                                                                If I killed someone for you
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                Would you hold my hand? (would you hold my hand?)
                                                                They're the same that I used
I hear the sirens coming, I see the flashing lights
                                                                When I killed someone for you
I'm driving through the suburbs, wearing my disguise
                                                                 Would you turn me in? (would you turn me in?)
I show up at her doorstep to look her in the eyes
                                                                When I say I'm on the loose
I tell her that it's me, but she doesn't recognize
                                                                Would you hide me when (would you hide me when?)
Can't you see I'm running? Said I need a place to hide
                                                                My face is on the news?
I've gotta ask you something, could you please let me inside?
                                                                'Cuz I killed someone for you
