Intro: C
                                                                Looking for a new place to begin
                                                                 Dm
                                                                Feeling like its hard to understand
Its like you're trying to get to heaven in a hurry
                                                                                                 C7
                                                                But as long as you still, keep peppering the pill
And the queue was shorter than you thought it would be
                                                                                             D7
                                                                You'll find a way, to spit it out again
       Dm
And doorman says you need to get a wristband
                                                                                                        Δm
                                                                                        G
                                                                And even when you know, the way it's gonna blow
You gotta lift between the pitfalls
                                                                         G
                                                                It's hard, to get around the wind
But you're looking like you're low on energy,

Looking for a new place to begin
                                                                С
Feeling like its hard to understand
                                                                I can hear you through my window
                                 C7
But as long as you still, keep peppering the pill
                                                                But i'm never quite sure who is who
                             D7
                                                                      Dm
You'll find a way, to spit it out again
                                                                But they want the world on a desert spoon
    С
                        G
And even when you know, the way it's gonna blow
                                                                It always sounds like they're fighting
        G
It's hard, to get around the wind
                                                                Or as if that's what they're about to do
                                                                                G

                                                                It might not hurt now, but it's gonna hurt soon
                                                                Riff 1:
Stretching out the neck on your evening
                                                               Riff 2:
Trying to even out some defects
                                                                Interludio 1:
        Dm
                          G
But its sabre-toothed multi-ball confusion
                                                                Interludio 2:
And you can shriek until you're hollow
Or whisper it the other way
                                          С
                                                                Interludio 3:
        Dm
                      G
Trying to save the youth, without putting your shoes on
