

Alexandra Savior - Cupid

```
Some cosmic business
                            tom:
                                                                   Gb Bm
                                                                Illuminating allure
                                                               What are we waiting for Gb Bm
            [Primeira Parte]
                                                               Never hated you more
Filled in the hole in the road D G
                                                                                          Gb7
                                                               Why does nobody but you
We were speaking in code
Gb Bm
Stuck in fantasy mode
                                                                [Refrão]
Whoever really liked
                                                                Know a shortcut
  Gb Bm
Coming back down to Earth
                                                               A sure shot
It's not that it hurt
                                                                I forgot
Gb Bm
It was just so much worse
                                                               How it ought to feel
       G
With anyone but you
                                                                                          Gb7 D
                                                               I don't know what to do
[Refrão]
                                                                It's a whole lot
                                                                To hold back
 Know a shortcut
                                                                You know that
A sure shot
                                                               Cupid shoots to kill
I forgot
                                                                [Guitar Solo] G Gb Bm D
How it ought to feel
                                                                [Refrão]
                          Gb7
I don't know what to do
                                                               Know a shortcut
It's a whole lot
                                                               A sure shot
To hold back
                                                               I forgot
You know that
                                                               How it ought to feel
Cupid shoots to kill
                                                                I don't know what to do
                                                                It's a whole lot
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                To hold back
There's a mysterious force
                                                                You know that
It sinks in its claws
Gb Bm Pulls me closer to yours
                                                               Cupid shoots to kill
Acordes
                                      ukulele-chords.com
```