

Arctic Monkeys - Still Take You Home

```
Tom: Bb
                                                               youve forgotten my name.
                                                                                                        Eb
                                                                                                                 Gb F
                                                               But yeh you know it, and you knew it all along Intro-
                                                               Bh
Bb Dm Dbm x12
Bb Eb Gb F x4
                                                               And yeh you say you have forgotten but your fibbing and wont tell me i'm wrong
Riff 1:
                                                               Chorus
                                                               Riff 2
Verse-
Bh
Oh, spending all of your money on trendy haircuts that you read were cool
                                                               Break-Db
                                                                                            Bb
And your probably alrite, but under these lights you look Woah woah, woah woah, da da da dadada da la da da da daa
And im struglin', I can see through your fake tan
                                                                 Woah woah, woah woah WOAH
Bb
Eb
And yeh you know it for a fact that everybodies eating out of Bb Dm Dbm x12 your hand
                                                               Chorus
Chorus-
                                                               Verse 3-
                  Db
   What do you know, O! You know nothing
                                                                                                   Eb
   Yeh, But i'll still take you home, yeh I'll still take you
                                                               So your sold to the fashion, your a top shop princess, a rock home
                                                               star too
   What do you know, O! You don't know nothing Wheres the love and the pasion? Well I spose thats nothing to do with you
(bass and lead play riffs, no rhythm guitar)
Verse 2-
                                                               But its alrite, O I'll put it on one side
Bb
                                        Eb
                                                               Yeh cos everybodies looking, you got control of everyones Gh
                                                               eyes,
Well fancy seeing you in here, your all tarted up and you dont
                                                               Gb
                                                               including mine.
                                                               [riffs enviados por ze guilherme banda skinner box]
Well I aint seen you since last year, and suprisingly enough
```

Acordes

