                                                                Tell me your secrets, all of the creep shit
 (forma dos acordes no tom de C )
                                                                That's how I know it's true
Capostraste na 1º casa
                                                                                      Bm
                                                                Baby, direct it, name in the credits
            [Primeira Parte]
                                                                Like the movies, ooh
Step up the two of us, nobody knows us
                                                                [Pré-Refrão]
Get in the car like, "Skrrt"
                                                                Click, click, click and post
Staying up all night, order me pad thai
                                                                Drip-drip-dripped in gold
Then we gon' sleep 'til noon
                                                                Quick, quick, quick, let's go
Me with no makeup, you in the bathtub
                                                                Kiss me and take off your clothes
Bubbles and bubbly, ooh
                                                                [Refrão]
                                      Dm
This is a pleasure, feel like we never act this regular Imagine a world like that
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                Imagine a world like that
                                                                We go like up 'til I'm 'sleep on your chest
Click, click, click and post
                                                                Love how my face fits so good in your neck
Drip-drip-dripped in gold
                                                                Why can't you imagine a world like that?
Quick, quick, quick, let's go
                                                                Imagine a world
Kiss me and take off your clothes
[Refrão]
                                                                Can you imagine it?

                                                                Can you imagine it?
Imagine a world like that
                                                                Can you imagine it?
Imagine a world like that
                                                                Can you imagine it?
We go like up 'til I'm 'sleep on your chest
                                                                Can you imagine it? (Can you imagine?)
Love how my face fits so good in your neck
                                                                Can you imagine it? (Can you imagine?)
                        Bm
Why can't you imagine a world like that?
                                                                Can you imagine it? (Ooh)
Imagine a world
                                                                Imagine that
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                Imagine it, imagine it
Knew you were perfect, after the first kiss
                                                                Imagine it, imagine it
Took a deep breath like, "ooh"
                                                                Imagine, imagine
Feels like forever, baby, I never thought that it would be you Imagine, imagine
                                                                Imagine, imagine
