Tom: D
Intro: D

D
There are people going hungry every day A
G D
They've got nothing on their plates A
G D

A
And you're filling your fat face with every different kind of cake
D A
And if you ever go lardy, or go lame
G D
I will drop you straight away
G D
That's the price you have to pay
A A
For every stupid thing you say

D A
There are people going lonely, and they'll stay
G D
Lonely lay into the year
G D
Because you're making blinkers fashionable
A A
And fashionably you'll say
"All is equal in love and war" and
A G D
"I'm sorry, but I've got some things to do"
G D A
And you pretend to read a book you'll never finish till the day
Bm
That the author dedicates it
G

To A Century Of Fakers
D A
They took your mould and they burned it on the fire in history today
Bm
Yeah, the author dedicates it
G
To A Century Of Fakers
D A
He was an anarchist, he tried his best but it wasn't good enough

(A A G D A A G D)

Verso 2 - Igual ao Verso 1
Did I say I would see you soon?
Well I'm sorry, but i just came off my bike
And my face is scarred
And chance has barred me seeing you tonight
I was over the other side of the city
And if the truth be known I'd say
That you look great from there before you shaved your golden hair today

Bm
Everybody's trying to make us
G
Another century of fakers
D A
They took you mould and burned it on the fire of history today
Bm
Everybody's trying to make us
A G D G
Another cool decade of fakers
Everybody's trying to make us
G
Another century of fakers
