                                                                                    F C
                                                                    And the quiet hum of a business
                                                                    Let me dangle a while in this waiting room
                                                                    I don't need to go I don't need to know what you're doing
Lying on my bed I was reading french
           G
                                                                    To know what you're doing
     Am
With the light too bright for my senses
                                                                     \left( \begin{array}{cccc} C & G & Am \end{array} \right)   \left( \begin{array}{cccc} D & F & C & G \end{array} \right)
From this hiding place, life was way too much
                   FC
           G
It was loud and rough round the edges
                                                                                                        C
                                                                    Lying on my side you were half awake and your face was tired
So I faced the wall when an old man called
                 F C
Out of dreams that I would die there
                                                                                                       Am
                                                                    If I had a camera I'd snap you now cos there's beauty in every
But a sight unseen, you were pulling strings stumble
And you had a different idea
                                                                    We are out of practise we're out of sight
                                                                    On the edge of nobody's empire
I was like a child, I was light as straw

Am G F C
                                                                    If we live by books and we live by hope
When my father lifted me up there
                  F
                                                                    Does that make us targets for gunfire?
Took me to a place where they checked my body
                F C
                                                                    Now I look at you you're a mother of two
Am G F C
My soul was floating in thin air
                                                                    You're a quiet revolution
I clung to the bed, and I clung to the past
                  F C
And I clung to the welcome darkness
                                                                    Marching with the crowd singing dirty and loud
                                                                                G F C
But at the end of the night, there's a green green light
                                                                    For the people's emancipation
                   F C
       G
It's the quiet before the madness
                                                                    Did I do ok, did I pave the way
There was a girl that sang like the chime of a bell
                                                                    Was I strong when you were wanting
She put out her arm and she touched me when I was in hell
                                                                    I was tied to the yoke with a decent bloke
when I was in hell
                                                                                   F C
                                                                    Who was stern but never daunting
Someone sang a song and I sang along
                                                                    And he told me to push and he made me feel well
Cause I knew the words from my childhood
                                                                    And he told me to leave that vision of hell to the dying
Intellect, ambition they fell away
                                                                    Oh to the dying
  Am G F C
                                                                    [Final] C G Am D F C G
They locked me up for my own good
But I didn't mind cause the silence was kind
