

Bojack Horseman - Don't Stop Dancing (Reprise)

tom:

G

Life is a never-ending show, old sport

Except the minor detail that it ends

The overture's a lifetime, but the show is short

Here with all your family and friends

You run the race, you blurt your lines

They put your face on shirts and shrines

And giant signs a thousand feel tall

And don't stop dancing

Don't stop dancing

'til the curtain call

Shows are a never-ending life, of course

A silhouette that stays when you are gone

What use is the struggle and the strife, old horse?

End it and your legacy lives on

The chatter stops, the crowd departs

A needle drops, the music starts

A song you taught me when I was small

Don't stop dancing

Don't stop dancing
