What are you thinking of when you hold my hand?
                                                                  Gotta keep moving on

Spare me your promises and your words
                                                                  I can't look back

They sound so bland
                                                                  I'll keep my eyes on track
      Am7
I have made up my mind
                                                                  My road to I-don't-know-where

I'm leaving all these memories behind
                                                                  Has no place to stop

Who am I tell you what is sick or sane?
                                                                         Am

Just don't wanna be the same
      Am
I'm better off alone
                                                                  If I sing my song

No one but me to hear myself complain

If I sing my song
