Intro: Am Dm G C Em
                                                              All they ever do is let me down
No, I think I'll stay in tonight
                                                               Every time I let somebody in
Skip the conversations and the "oh, I'm fine"s
                                                              Then I find out what they're all about
No, I'm no stranger to surprise
                                                               I'm just lookin' for some real friends
This paper town has let me down too many times
                                                              Wonder where they're all hidin' out
Why do I even try?
                                                               I'm just lookin' for some real friends
        Dm
                                                               Gotta get up out of this town
Give me a reason why
                                                                       Lookin' for some new friends
I felt that I could trust you, never mind
                                                               Am Dm G C Em
       Am
Why are we switching sides?
                                                               Oh. ohh
                                                              Am Dm G C Em
        Dm
Where do I draw the line?
                                                              Ohh, ah
I guess until I need to read the signs
                                                               I just wanna talk about nothin'
                                                                                 Dm
                                                              With somebody that means something
I'm just lookin' for some real friends
                                                              Spell the names of all our dreams and demons
All they ever do is let me down
                                                               For the times that I don't understand
Every time I let somebody in
                                                               Tell me what's the point of a moon like this
Then I find out what they're all about
                                                               When I'm alone again
I'm just lookin' for some real friends
                                                              Can I run away to somewhere beautiful
                        Dm
Wonder where they're all hidin' out
                                                              Where nobody knows my name?
I'm just lookin' for some real friends
                                                              I'm just lookin' for some real friends
Gotta get up out of this town
Am Dm G C Em
                                                              All they ever do is let me down
Oh, ohh
Am Dm G C Em
                                                              Every time I let somebody in
Ohh, ah
                                                              Then I find out what they're all about
                                                               I'm just lookin' for some real friends
I stay up
                                                                                  Dm
Talkin' to the moon
                                                              All they ever do is let me down
                                                               I'm just lookin' for some real friends
And feelin' so alone in every crowded room
Can't help
                                                              Gotta get up out of this town
                      Dm
But feel like something's wrong, yeah
                                                               Am Dm G C Em
                                                               Oh, ohh
'Cause the place I'm livin' in
                                                              Ohh, ah
