

Casting Crowns - Every Man

```
Someone help me understand
Intro: 2x: G F Em
                                                                                                              G
                                                                 Is there hope for every man?
       pull e Hamm
                                                                 Intro: G F Em F
                                                                 D2
I'm the man with all I've ever wanted
                                                                 Seems there's just so many roads to travel
all the toys and playing games
                                                                 It's hard to tell where they will lead
                                                                                                                             D2
I am the one who pours your coffee corner booth each Saturday My life is scarred and my dreams unraveled
I am your daughter's favorite teacher
                                                                 Now I'm scared to take the leap
                                                                                                               D2
I am the leader of the band
                                                                 If I could find someone to follow
                                        D2
I sit behind you in the bleachers
                                                                 Who know my pain and feels the weight
I am every man
                                                                 The uncertainty of my tomorrow
                                                                        (pause)
I'm the coach of every winning team and still a loser in my
                                                                 The guilt and pain of yesterday mind
                Em
                                                                 Solo: Em C G D Am C Em D C
I am the soldier in the airport facing giants one more time
                                                                 Refrão 2x:
I am the woman shamed and haunted by the cry of unborn life
                                                                                                            Dm
                                                                 There is hope for every man
every broken man nervous child lonely wife
                                                                                                                      Am
                                                                 A solid place where we can stand
Refrão:
                                                                                                          \mathsf{Cm}
                                         Dm
                                                                 In this dry and weary land
Is there hope for every man?
                                                   \mathsf{Am}
                                                                 There is hope for every man
A solid place where we can stand
                                        Cm
                                                                 There is Love that never dies
In this dry and weary land
                                                                                                                  Am
                                            G
                                                                 There is peace in troubled times
Is there hope for every man?
                                                                                                             \mathsf{Cm}
                                          Dm
                                                                 Will we help them understand?
Is there love that never dies?
                                                                 Jesus is hope for every man
                                                 Am
Is there peace in troubled times?
                                                                 Intro: G F Em F
                                         \mathsf{Cm}
```

Acordes

