

Catherine McGrath - She'll Never Love You

You, were the love that filled my heart

The remedy to fix my scars
For life, until the end of time
I, fell for every single word
Lost inside your crazy world
I was yours but you were never mine

When you're lying there
Are you looking at her while you're thinking 'bout me?
'Cause it can't compare to what we should've been

She'll never love you like I loved you, baby
She'll never touch you like I touched you, baby
Could've held my heart inside your hands
But you took that chance away
Does she know you like I know you, baby?
Does she hold you like I held you, baby?
Could've held my heart inside your hands
But you took that chance away
She'll never love you like me

I, must've tried a million times
Tried to keep this thing alive

But you had a different plan
You took, every piece of me you could
Just another stamp inside your book
Now I, now I understand

When you're lying there
Are you looking at her while you're thinking 'bout me?
'Cause it can't compare to what we should've been

She'll never love you like I loved you, baby
She'll never touch you like I touched you, baby
Could've held my heart inside your hands
But you took that chance away
Does she know you like I know you, baby?
Does she hold you like I held you, baby?
Could've held my heart inside your hands
But you took that chance away
She'll never love you like me, me, me
She'll never love you like me, me, me
She'll never love you like me, me, me
She'll never love you like me

When you're lying there
Are you thinking 'bout me?
