

Cimorelli - All My Firends Say

```
Tom: C
                                                              All my friends say, he's lame

C

A

C
  Cm G A
                                                               You could do so much better than him
Ooh ooh ooh
Maybe I should've known, maybe I should listen
                                                               All my friends say, he lies
                                                              D Db A
                     В
They say he'll never change, he said with me it's different B G C F A I tell myself: "He has a good heart, he means well. "
                                                               Last week he made you cry
                                                               All his friends say, she's crazy
                                                                         Bb
And I swear he's trying so hard
                                                               Emotional and unstable
                                                                        C Am C Cm
     C D A
                                                              But the number of times he's let me down
                  В
I can't count that high
                                                              Ooh ooh ooh
                                                              Em Cm A
And all my friends say
A D Em C B C
        Cm
All my friends say, he's lame D C A C
                                                               You should leave him, leave him now
You could do so much better than him
                                                               C Em Cm A
                                                              And all my friends say
         A Dm
All my friends say, he lies C A
                                                              He's no good for you, but somehow I don't care
Em Cm A C B
All my friends say, he's lame
Last week he made you cry
             C
All his friends say, she's crazy
                                                                       You could do so much better than him
          Bb
Bb C Am C Cm
All my friends say, just walk away
Cm G A
Emotional and unstable
                                                                            C Am
                                                              All my friends say, he lies C A
                                                              Last week he made you cry
Ooh ooh ooh
                                                               All his friends say, she's crazy
                                                              Emotional and unstable
He always says he's broke, then buys new video games
                                                                       C Am C Cm
                                                              All my friends say, just walk away
              В
                             Em
Whenever we go out, he always asks me to pay
                                                              Ooh ooh ooh
I'm getting tired of his stupid excuses!
                                                              Cm G A
                                                              Ooh ooh ooh, hey!
All his whining and his mood swings
                                                              Ooh ooh ooh
But the number of times he's made me smile
                                                              And all my friends say!
I can't count that high
```

Acordes

С

D