

Cimorelli - Sunsets And Heartbreak

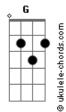

```
And i was gone
                                                                                   tom:
Intro: C G Em Bm
                                                                                                                                                                                            This little town is magic
                                                                                                                                                                                            It's making me feel things i never thought i would
The streetlights were gold
                                                                                                                                                                                            My names in your phone every night
You were standing by my car
                                                                                                                                                                                            You tell me bout your sister and your family
I jumped and you caught me
                                                                                                                                                                                            Gave myself away now you know
I'm hanging onto your every word and i can barely breathe
                                                                                                                                                                                            I'm in love with your laugh
And you're so tall when i'm next to you
                                                                                                                                                                                            Cause i can't even hold it back
I look up at you and try to hide my smile
                                                                                                                                                                                            Wish we could just stay here
You walk me to my door
                                                                                                                                                                                            But i know it's not real
I've pictured this a million times before
                                                                                                                                                                                            You stand there in my driveway
I'm sitting on these stairs
                                                                                                                                                                                            You're a red light on a highway
Staring at the wall
                                                                                                                                                                                            And i'm drowning in the sound of your name
                                   Fm
That light's shining
                                                                                                                                                                                            Between late nights and mistakes
But i can't see at all
                                                                                                                                                                                            I can't stand in this earthquake
           G
Just tryna connect things in my mind
                                                                                                                                                                                              I look up at the sky
Wish i could have this my way
                                                                                                                                                                                            The light's starting to fade
                                                                                                                                                                                           Here comes sunsets and heartbreak % \left( 1\right) =\left( 1\right) \left( 1\right
But i know you can't stay
                                                                                                                                                                                            Am Em C G Am
                                                                                                                                                                                            I'm going down, i'm going down, i'm going down
C
C
D
You stand there in my driveway
                                                                                                                                                                                            Our story is sunsets and heartbreak
You're a red light on a highway
And i'm drowning in the sound of your name
                                                                                                                                                                                            I don't wanna say goodbye
Between late nights and mistakes
                                                                                                                                                                                            I don't wanna say goodbye
                                                                                                                                                                                            I don't wanna say goodbye
I can't stand in this earthquake
 I look up at the sky
                                                                                                                                                                                            Maybe if i close my eyes
                                                                                                                                                                                           Maybe if i hold real tight
The light's starting to fade
                                                                                                                                                                                            I won't have to say goodbye
Here comes sunsets and heartbreak
Am Em C G Am
                                                                                                                                                                                            Goodbye
I'm going down, i'm going down, i'm going down
                                                                                                                                                                                                 Bm
                                                                                                                                                                                            Goodbye
Our story is sunsets and heartbreak
                                                                                                                                                                                            You stand there in my driveway
C G Em Bm
  Oh o-oh
                                Em C
                                                                                                                                                                                            You're a red light on a highway
Sunsets and heartbreak (oh o-oh)
  Oh o-oh
                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Δm
                                                                                                                                                                                            Between late nights and mistakes
Sitting in my car today
                                                                                                                                                                                            I can't stand in this earthquake
It's like nothing even happened yesterday
                                                                                                                                                                                              I look up at the sky
If you were here right next to me
                                                                                                                                                                                            The light's starting to fade
I swear i could replay it all day long
                                                                                                                                                                                            Here comes sunsets and heartbreak
When i sing that song
                                                                                                                                                                                                                Em C G Am
                                                                                                                                                                                            I'm going down, i'm going down, i'm going down
Looked over at you
                                                                                                                                                                                            (late nights and mistakes)
Saw your smile
```

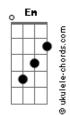

Oferecimento Lojalele.com.br

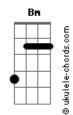

Am Em C G
Oh sunsets and heartbreaks
Acordes

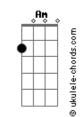

Am Em C Late nights and mistakes

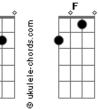

© ukulele-chords.com