Feels like there's something broken inside
                                                            Is that I love you so
All I know
                                                            So much that it hurts
All I know
                                                             I see the road begin to climb
Is that I'm lost

Whenever you go
