

Conan Gray - My World

```
It's my world and it's my life
                tom:
                E (forma dos acordes no tom de D )
Capostraste na 2ª casa
                                                                  It's my girl and it's my guy
Intro: D
                                                                  I'll kiss 'em if I might like
I've given up on being anything
                                                                  I don't have you in mind
Romeo, I do not need a referee
                                                                  It's my world and it's my time
Telling me we're just a summer fling
                                                                  I'll waste it how I might like
But it's true
                      D
                                                                  I don't have you in mind
I found approval as a remedy
                                                                  I don't have you in mind
Every fucking person I would have to please (DGBmG)
Maybe I got that from you
                                                                  A full year later, you're calling me back
But why?
                                                                  You're saying you're sorry for treating me like trash
It's my world and it's my life
                                                                  It's totally okay, dude, I really don't mind
It's my girl and it's my guy
                                                                  You got your revenge by being stuck with your life
I'll kiss 'em if I might like
                                                                  So, you can keep drinking and living a lie
I don't have you in mind
                                                                  And talking all low when you're out with the guys
It's my world and it's my time
                                                                                     Dbm
                                                                  Doesn't matter to me, it won't affect my life
I'll waste it how I might like
                                                                  'Cause I don't care anymore
I don't have you in mind
                    D
I don't have you in mind
                                                                  But why?
                                                                  It's my world and it's my life
There was a time when you were everything
                                                                  It's my girl and it's my guy
All my self-assessment on your thought of me
                                                                  I'll kiss 'em if I might like
Couldn't tell you who I was before
                                                                  I don't have you in mind
So when
                                                                  It's my world and it's my time
You shut the door and shut the world of me
How was I supposed to know who I should be
                                                                  I'll waste it how I might like
If I was no longer yours?
                                                                  I don't have you in mind
   D
But why?
                                                                  I don't have you in mind
Acordes
      Ε
                                                                          Dbn
                                                                                  ıkulele-chords.com
                          ukulele-chords.com
                                                                                                ukulele-chords.com
                                        ukulele-chords.com
```