

Current Joys - A Different Age

Tom: G
Intro:

[Primeira Parte]

Oh, you don't know me 'cause I'm from a different age G
And you can't see me 'cause I live in a different age G
And you can hurt me but you wouldn't know what to say G
But you should believe me, our dreams are all the same G
Like a life without love D
God, that's just insane G
But a love without a life D
Well, that just happens everyday G
And I wish I could change, but I'll probably just stay the same D
And I wish you could see the Lord G
But this song is a joke and the melody I wrote, wrote!

[Segunda Parte]

Oh, you can't hear me 'cause I sing to a different age G
And you should fear me 'cause I believe in a different age G
But I live in the city that lives in a different age G
Oh, I live in a city that lives in a different age G
Where all the poets are writing up wires D
And our just singing songs G
Oh, all the poets are writing up wires D
And hours are just singing G
This city's got nothing for you here, kid D
Oh, I told you just go home G
They're saying this city is useless D
But we've already done it all G
Oh, all the poets are writing up wands D
And hours just singing songs G
And I wish you could see the Lord D
But this song is a joke and the melody I wrote, wrote! G
