

Daft Punk - Within

```
(Where are the locks to try the key?)
Tom: Db
                                                                                Gb
                                                               I am lost I can't even remember my name
                                                      Ab
                                               Fhm
There are so many things that I don't understand
                                                               (And I wonder why)
There's a world within me that I cannot explain
                                                                                        Gb
                                                               Bbm
                                               Ebm Ab
                                                               I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
                Gb
Many rooms to explore, but the doors look the same
                                                                                    Ab
                                                               I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
I am lost I can't even remember my name
                                                               I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
                                                                                     Ab
I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
                                                               I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
                     Ab
I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
                                                               I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
                                                                                     Ab
I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
                                                               I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
                     Ab
I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
                                                               I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
( Bbm Gb Ebm Ab )
                                                                                    Ab
( Bbm Gb Ebm Ab )
                                                               I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
                                                   Ab
There are so many things that I don't understand
                                                               I've been, for sometime, Looking through someone
                                                                                    Ab
                                                               I need to know now, Please tell me who I am
There's a world within me that I cannot explain
                                                               ( Bbm Gb Ebm Ab )
                                                               ( Bbm Gb Ebm Ab )
Many rooms to explore, but the doors look the same
                                                               A#m
```

Acordes

