

Daniel Caesar - Toronto 2014

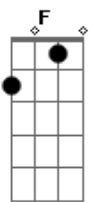

tom:
 Sometimes it feels like it's a trick
 Everything is not as it seems
 If only I could find a pair of glasses
 To help me see the ones who truly be
 They live and we sleep
 Pray my days will never hit one
 Take me far away from the Sun
 If only I could find my way through space-time
 Back to when I was happy being me
 They live and we
 I can hear the bells ringin', remindin' us why
 We're still here singin', it's for the time
 Stuck in the matrix, living a lie
 I'm not afraid to die
 Take me back to 2014
 It's how I picked this morning
 Far along the journey
 The future was alluring
 On the other side of TVs hoping that they see me

But, they already see me
 At least that's how I see things
 Isn't it funny how the time flies
 Like a g5 jet in the turbulence
 Well, we gon' make it home tonight
 Alright? Alright? Right, alright
 My misery is boring, finally feel confident
 Yes, that's an accomplishment
 Many more commas to get
 I can hear the bells ringin', remindin' us why (bells ringin', remindin' us why) We're still here singin', it's for the time (we're still singin') Stuck in the matrix, living a lie (in the matrix, livin' a lie)
 I'm not afraid to die (oh, oh)
 You know we're stuck on long roads
 Oh, Lord, you can't even reach me
 Just know, whenever you need me, figure it out Hopin' you'll see me, and I'll be around (you'll see me, yeah)
 'Cause when I'm on my block, sweat's cold, make it look easy
 Oh, take it easy on me, it's still my city, it's still my city
