Declan Mckenna - You Better Believe!!!

That Jesus and his loved ones tom:
                                                                        E.
                                                            Would save us all
               F
Intro: E Dbm
                                                                        D
                                                            Would save us all
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                  Dbm
                                                            Save us all
                        F
You're gonna get yourself killed
                                                                   ſ
             Dbm
                                                            Save us all
Before you can run
                                                            [Refrão]
                             F
Just 'cause you've got your own theme song
                                                                        E.
               Dbm
"Fastest?gun?in the solar?system"
                                                            So you better believe
                                                                     Dbm
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                            You better believe
                                                                      F
                                                            You better believe
                F
Don't mean you're alone
                                                                      F
                                                            You better believe
                    Dbm
It don't mean?you're a home run
                                                            [Ponte]
                     F
Don't mean that you're holy
Don't mean you're?the?only?one
                 Dbm
                                                            We're gonna get ourselves killed
     B Dbm
                                                             Dbm
To save us?all
                                                            0h yeah
                                                                       F
B A
Oh
                                                            You're going overboard, babe
                                                                        Dbm
                                                            You're going nowhere
                                                            Gbm A
Oh yeah, oh yeah
[Refrão]
                                                                                    Dbm
Oh, you better? believe
                                                            We're gonna get ourselves killed
                                                                                     E
(E Dbm)
                                                            What do you think about the rocket I built?
                                                                    A B Dbm
                                                            Is it so fast, so high speed?
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                           E
   F
                                                            It's just what you need
The time has come
                                                                                    Dbm
                  Dhm
                                                            We're gonna get ourselves freed
            F
Where rocket boots and lasers
Gbm
Lose their flavours
                                                            What do you think about the blood that I bleed?
                                                            A B Dbm
'Cause when I'm dead, you'll break bread
                     R
Like gum stuck to your heels
                                                            But it's all in your head
                E
So you know how it feels
                                                                            Α
                                                            It's all in your head
                        Dbm
    E
To wait at Heaven's gate for God
                                                                            Am
                                                            It's all in your head
        Gbm E
Watching your requiem on screen
B
Gather 'round for the final scene
                                                            It's all in your

          E
Where you were sold away
                                                            E
       E Dbm
                                                                              E Dbm
One summer's day last year
                                                            I'm off out to buy a bag of Quavers
               Gbm F
                                                             Gbm
Oh, I'm sorry, my dear
                                                            And Nike trainers
              R
The asteroid's here
                                                            Comfort you can feel
                                                                                  Е
                                                            And you know that it's real
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                            E Dbm
                                                            Because you saw it at the station
Oh, you used to speak your mind
                                                              Gbm
                                                            God's creation
 Dbm
                                                                               В
So jealous, but so kind
                                                                 E
                                                            With a half off summer deal
          E
But you did fall
                                                                   E E Dbm
