

Del Water Gap - Better Than I Know Myself

tom:
                Gb (forma dos acordes no tom de E )
                                                                'Cause I know you could
Capostraste na 2ª casa
                                                                Yeah, oh, I know you could
(Don't you know me?)
                                                                This can't be right, I'm scared and I
(A E B Ebm)
                                                                Need someone to calm me
I can't read you like a magazine
                                                                I'll close my eyes 'til you arrive
                                                                                     Fbm
Can't even see you right in front of me talking
                                                                And take me how you want me
Your lips are moving, I don't hear a thing
                                                                Don't you know me
No, you're not getting through to me
                                                                Better than I know me?
                                                                        Е
And I know you'd rather turn the other cheek
                                                                Don't you know me
                                                                              Ebm
But you hit me up a thousand times a week
                                                                Better than I know myself?
Scared to tell you that I don't want you to leave
                                                                (Don?t you know me?)
'Cause I know vou could
                                                                ( A E B Ebm )
( A E B Ebm )
( A E B Ebm )
Yeah, I know you could
This can't be right, I'm scared and I
               Fhm
Need someone to calm me
                                                                This can't be right, I'm scared and I
              Е
I'll close my eyes 'til you arrive

                                                                Need someone to calm me
                                                                I'll close my eyes 'til you arrive
Ebm
And take me how you want me
                                                                And take me how you want me
Don't you know me
            Fhm
                                                                Don't you know me
Better than I know me?
    E
Don't you know me
                                                                Better than I know me?
              Ebm
                                                                    E B
Better than I know myself?
                                                                Don't you know me
                                                                               Ebm
                                                                Better than I know myself?
I can't even hold a flame to it
Struggling to find a name to call it
                                                                 Better than I know myself
                                                                              Ebm
Wonder if I'm being obvious
                                                                Better than I know myself
Maybe I'm acting out, I wish
                                                                  Better than I know myself
                                                                             Ebm
                                                                Better than I know myself
That you'd never go and turn the other cheek
You used to hit me up a thousand times a week
                                                                (Don?t you know me?)
