 Capotraste na 1ª casa
 The Cheap And Easy Approach

I've seen the Paris DVD and yes, it does seem Mart plays with a guitar in flat tuning. But isn't it a pain in the ass to do flat tuning? I sure think so! So I came up with the Cheap And Easy Approach... not only easier to tune, but easy to play too! Here goes:

Tuning: Drop D
 Capo 1 (tab relative to the capo)

Main Riff:

Alternate Riff

or, if you're amazingly cheap, you can do this:

Acordes

And so the bridge part would go like this:

Isn't that easy?
 Here's the format:

On each line of the verse play this:
 Main Riff x 3 Alternate Riff

On the chorus, play this twice:
 Alternate Riff Main Riff x 2

Bridge: Listen to it, there's alot of those.
 For the 2nd guitar in the bridge, who knows? Play with a slide on the first two strings is my advice.

To end, I suggest alternating the main riff like this:

Go forth, you lazy ones, and play!

Tell me how big a moron I am at
