

Ed Bruce - The Greatest Love Song

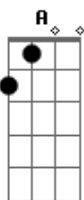

tom:
 Sometimes I look at you, look at me
 I can't believe what I see
 A woman's love who keeps on givin me
 The kind of love I thought could never be
 The poet's words of love cannot compare
 With the sprinkle of the stardust in your hair
 And melodies in shame would turn away
 In the presence of your gentle loving way
 And I know that I could never ever put them all together
 But if I could I know that I would find

The greatest love song in the whole wide world is right there in
 Your eyes
 Every day I see within your smile
 The rainbows of a hundred thousand miles
 And a million loving feelings I can't say
 So I'll just keep on loving you this way
 And I know that I could never ever put them all together
 But if I could I know that I would find
 The greatest love song in the whole wide world is right there
 in
 Your eyes
