

Elton John - All That I'm Allowed

```
Tom: Db
                                                                           Then there are the lucky ones.
                        Dh
  Verse 1:
            Breaking down never seems to be that hard.
                                                             -Repeat chorus-
                                Gb
            Falling short is always in the cards.
                                                             Bridge:
                          Db
                                                                         I've always tried to make things clear.
            Among the road, sun rising up my back,
                                                                         Then I watched as progress stalled.
                                     Gb
            Lost it all somewhere between the cracks.
                                                                         I only hope I'm standing here
                       Ebm
            I always hoped that I'd do better.
                                                                                   Gb Ebm
                                 Ebm
                                                                         When heaven finally comes to call.
            That I'd come out on top for once.
                                                             -Repeat chorus-
            We all get what we're delivered.
                            Ebm
                                                             Instrument break
                                                                                Db
                                                                                      Db
                                                                                              Db
                                                                                                     Db
                                                                                                             Gb
                                                                                                                    Ab
            Then there are the lucky ones.
Chorus: And I've got all that I'm allowed.
                                                                        Thankful, I'm thankful, so thankful.
                 Db Db
                                                             thankfull.
             It'll do for me.
                                                                                                             Db / C
                                                                                             Ab
                                                             Db / Ab Gb
             I'm thankful now.
                                                                        I've got all that I'm allowed.
                   Db Gb
                                                                                   Ab Db
             The walls get higher everyday.
                                                                        All that I'm allowed.
                         Ab
                                                                             Gb
                                                                     Db / C C# Db / Ab
             The barriers get in the way,
                                                             Dh
                                                                        I'm thankful, and I've got all that I'm allowed.
Db
             But I see hope in every cloud, and I'm thankful, Db
                                                                        So thankful, and I've got all that I'm allowed.
             Thankful. I'm thankful, so thankful;
                                                             -Repeat chorus-
             I'm thankful I've got all that I'm allowed.
                                                             Instrument break
                                                                                                                     Ab
Verse 2:
             Leaving town gets to feel just like a job.
                                                                                В
                                                                                           Gb
                                                                      Thankful, I'm thankful, so thankful.
                                   Gb
             My desire never winds up on top.
                                                             thankfull,
                            Db
                                                                                                             Dh
                                                                                                                  Dh
                                                                                                                      Dh
             I can't say now I didn't want to moon.
                                                                        I've got all that I'm allowed.
             It's out of reach:
                                                                                    Ab Db
                                                                        All that I'm allowed.
             Somewhere beyond this room.
                                                                             Gb
                                                                     Db Db Db
                         Ebm
                                                             Dh
             I always hoped that I'd do better,
                                                                        I'm thankful, and I've got all that I'm allowed.
                                  Ebm
             That I'd come out on top for once.
                                                                        So thankful, and I've got all that I'm allowed.
                       Αm
             We all get what we're delivered,
                                                              Complimentary "All That Im Allowed" ringtone
```

Acordes

