There was a face on a hoarding that someone had drawn on
And just enough time for the night to pass by without warning
Away in the distance there's a blue flashing light
Someone's in trouble somewhere tonight

Well they've locked up their daughters and they battened the hatches $% \left(1\right) =\left(1\right) \left(1\right$

They always could find us but they never could catch us Through the grease streaked windows of an all night cafe We watched the arrested get taken away And that cigarette haze has ecology heat

As the whores and the drunks filed in from the street

Cause the steams in the boiler, the coals in the fire

If you ask how I am then I'll just say inspired

If the thorn of a rose is the thorn in your side
