the sky.

Sleeping in the open, see the shadows softly moving.
Take a train towards the southlands. Our time was never better.
We shall pass the sights of splendor on the door of a new life.
It had to happen soon I guess whether it is wrong or it is right.

We learned to be so graceful watching wild horses running.
And from those agile angels we knew the tide was turning.
For we watched as on the skyway - the herons circled slowly.
While we mere mortals watched them fly our sleepless eyes grew heavy.
