

Eric Johnson - Minstrel Gigolo

```
(verso 3)

D Em7
  (solo)
                                                          You're the minstrel gigolo
                                                          D Em7
                                                          Don't you know
                                ph -----
                                                           D Em7
                                                          You sing your songs of
                                                   bss
                          CO
                                                            D Em7
                                                          love so soft and low
                                                          Gbm7 D7M G D7M
                                                          And they want you more and more
                             pb
                                          pb
     ~~~ CO ~~~~~
                                                          ( D7M G D7M )
ph~~~~
                                                          (verso 4)
                                                                D Em7
        pb
                                                          All the young and lonely
                                                           D Em7 D
                                                          girls wait for you D Em7
                                                          There by the backstage door
                                                  bss
                                                                   Gbm7
                                                          And they're hoping to
                                                          D7M G D7M
                                                          Be the one
                                                          ( D7M G D7M )
                                                          (refrão)
                                                          And when you start to sing
                                                                   Bm7
(intro)
                                                          You will be their everything
(verso 1) D Em7
                                                          And when you start to sing \ensuremath{\text{A}} \ensuremath{\text{G2}}
You're the minstrel gigolo
                                                          Every woman will open up her heart
D Em7
Don't you know
                                                          And let you in
D Em7
You sing your songs of (refrão)
                                                                                      G2
 D Em7
                                                          Bm7
love so soft and low
                                                          And when you start to sing
Gbm7 D7M
And they want you more and more
                                                          You will be their everything
                                                          Bm7 A
                                                          And when you start to sing
( D7M G D7M )
                                                                         G2
                                                          Every woman will open up her heart
(verso 2)
     D Em7
All the young and lonely
                                                          And let you in
D Em7
girls wait for you (refrão)
     D Em7
There by the backstage door
                                                          And when you start to sing
        Gbm7
                                                                       Bm7
And they're hoping to
                                                          You will be their everything
D7M G D7M
                                                          And when you start to sing A G2
                                                          Every woman will open up her heart
( D7M G D7M )
                                                          And let you in
         Α
And when you start to sing A Bm7
                                                          (refrão)
                                                          Bm7
                                                                                      G2
You will be their everything
                                                          And when you start to sing
And when you start to sing A G2
                                                          You will be their everything Bm7 A
Every woman will open up her heart
                                                          And when you start to sing
And let you in
                                                          Every woman will open up her heart
                                                          And let you in
```

Acordes

