

Eric Johnson - Minstrel Gigolo

```
(verso 3)

D Em
                                                            You're the minstrel gigolo
  (solo)
                                                            D Em
                                                            Don't you know
                        bss ph -----
                                                             D Em
                                                            You sing your songs of
                                                    bss
                           CO
                                                              D Em
                                                            love so soft and low
Gbm D G D
                                                            And they want you more and more
                             pb
                                            pb
     ~~~ CO ~~~~~
                                                             ( D G D )
                                                             (verso 4)
                                                                  D Em
        pb
                                                            All the young and lonely
                                                             D Em D
                                                            girls wait for you

D Em
                                                            There by the backstage door
                                                    bss
                                                            And they're hoping to
                                                            D G D
                                                            Be the one
                                                            ( D G D )
                                                             (refrão)
                                                            And when you start to sing A Bm
                                                            You will be their everything
(intro)
(verso 1) D Em
                                                            And when you start to sing {\color{red}\mathsf{A}}
                                                             Every woman will open up her heart
You're the minstrel gigolo
D Em
Don't you know
D Em
                                                            And let you in
You sing your songs of (refrão)
                                                            Bm A
 D Em
love so soft and low
                                                            And when you start to sing A Bm
                                                            You will be their everything

Bm

A
And they want you more and more
                                                            And when you start to sing A G2
( D G D )
(verso 2)
D
Em
                                                             Every woman will open up her heart
All the young and lonely
                                                            And let you in
D Em D Em
girls wait for you
   D Em
There by the backstage door
                                                            And when you start to sing A Bm
  Gbm
And they're hoping to
                                                             You will be their everything
                                                            And when you start to sing A G2
Be the one
                                                             Every woman will open up her heart
( D G D )
                                                            And let you in
And when you start to sing
                                                             (refrão)
            Bm
                                                             Bm
You will be their everything
                                                             And when you start to sing
And when you start to sing A G2
                                                            You will be their everything Bm A G2
Every woman will open up her heart
                                                            And when you start to sing A G2
And let you in
                                                             Every woman will open up her heart
                                                            And let you in
```

Acordes

