

Eric Silver - Fly

Tom: D

Some things are bigger than I am

I want to feel the river flow and go everywhere the water goes

I want to soar just like a bird a hundred feet above the earth

One day I will

Some things are hard to understand

Some things are bigger than I am

One day these broken wings will touch the sky

I'll lean into the wind and fly

I want to feel how love can be, heart and soul on fire and free

I want to be a summer sun, the daydream of my special one

One day I will

Some things are hard to understand

Some things are bigger than I am

One day these broken wings will touch the sky

I'll lean into the wind and fly

Some things are hard to understand

Some things are bigger than I am

One day these broken wings will touch the sky

I'll lean into the wind and fly

One day these broken wings will touch the sky

I'll lean into the wind and fly

I want to feel the river flow

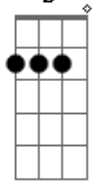

And go everywhere the water goes

I want to soar just like a bird

A hundred feet above the earth
