

Feist - So Sorry

```
Tom: E
                                                       We're divided by the ocean
    Е
                                                            Gbm Abm
I'm sorry, two words
                                                       And the only thing I know is
  Abm Ab7 Dbm
                                                           Gbm
I always think after you're gone

Gbm B E

When I realize I was acting all wrong
                                                       The answer it isn't for us
                                                         Gbm Abm
                                                                                 Gbm
                                                       No the answer isn't for us
 E Gbm Abm
So selfish, two words that could describe
   Ab7 Dbm Gbm
                                                       I'm sorry, two words
Old actions of mine when patience is in short supply
                                                           Abm Ab7
                                                                           Dbm
                                                       I always think after you're gone
E Gbm Dbm B A
                                                             Gbm B
We don't need to say goodbye
                                                       When I realize I was acting all wrong
E Gbm Dbm B A
We don't need to fight and cry
                                                          Gbm Dbm
                                                                      В
E Gbm Dbm B
                                                       We don't need to say goodbye
Oh we, we could hold each other tight
                                                       E Gbm Dbm B A
E Gbm Dbm B A
                                                       We don't need to fight and cry
                                                       E Gbm Dbm B
Tonight
                                                       Oh we, we could hold each other tight
                                                       E Gbm Dbm B A
We're so helpless
                                                       Tonight
   Gbm
                                                       E Gbm
                                                               Dbm B A
We're slaves to our own forces \begin{array}{c} \text{Gbm} \\ \text{We're afraid of our emotions} \end{array}
                                                       Tonight
                                                               Dbm B A
                                                       F Gbm
                                                       Tonight
    Gbm Abm
                                                       E Gbm Dbm B A
No one, knows where the shore is
                                                       Tonight
```

Acordes

