

Flo Rida - Hello Friday

```
Thank God it's Friday
G
Tom: C
                                                               We love that TGIF, word, yeah
  Refrão:
                                                               Let's get it popping, baby
Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
                                                               Show me something, baby
                          Am
You just save me when my life came tumbling down
               Em
                                                               Or I can blow it on the next girl
And I know you're gonna leave me
Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
Verso 1:
                                                               I got the 151, you got a way with your tongue
                                                               And by the end of the evening, forget a weekend
Yeah, like a charm, baby
                                                                                       Am
                                                               We won't even know what planet we on
Brighter than this thing on my arm, baby
                                                               Cause Monday, so many, goddamn it
It's a party every time you come around, baby
                                                               Tuesday, she wanna go up
Now if you're down, baby
                                                               But Wednesday, I panic, come scrambling
I can be the ground, baby, hear me running
                                                               Thursday just ain't my luck
Ain't nothing looking better than when I see you coming
                                                               Refrão:
Ain't none other feeling better than when I'm blowing money
                                                               Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
You can tell that I'm an addict, I'm addicted to money
I'm addicted to balling
                                                               You just save me when my life came tumbling down
                                                                                 Em
                                                               And I know you're gonna leave me
Pré Refrão:
I got the sip of Patron, I bought a ticket to Rome
                                                               Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
And by the end of the evening, forget a weekend
                                                               Ponte:
We won't_even know what planet we on
                                                               Saturday, I'm hitting all the beaches
Cause Monday, so many, goddamn it
                                                               And I ain't talking playing in the sun
Tuesday, she wanna go up
                                                               Sunday, I'm praying for forgiveness
But Wednesday, I panic, come scrambling
                                                               But the week just begun, hun
Thursday just ain't my luck
                                                               Cause Monday, so many, goddamn it
Refrão:
                                                               Tuesday, she wanna go up
Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
                                                               But Wednesday, I panic, come scrambling
You just save me when my life came tumbling down
                                                               Thursday just ain't my luck
                 Em
And I know you're gonna leave me
                                                                       F Em
Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
                                                               Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
                                                                              G
                                                               You just save me when my life came tumbling down
                                                               And I know you're gonna leave me
Ordering triple, seeing double, I'm acting single
                                                               Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
You on the top, on the bottom and she the middle
                                                               Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
I did all for the nookie, Oreo cookie
                                                               You just save me when my life came tumbling down
Bout to kill it, shawty, don't push me
                                                                               Em
                                                               And I know you're gonna leave me
Now drop it, you got it
                                                               Hello, Friday, I've been waiting for you for a long time
```

Acordes

