

Franz Ferdinand - Bite Hard

```
Tom: C
                                                                    Bite Hard well its a broken smile, breaking their hearts and breaking their minds
   (intro)
                                                                         Dm
                                                                    Bite Hard, its 5.05 your engines alive and we ride together,
 {\sf C} \quad {\sf Em} \quad {\sf C} \quad {\sf Em} \quad {\sf C} \quad {\sf Em} \quad {\sf Dm}
                                                                    Bite Hard
You dont know i sing these songs about you
         Em
                  Gbm
                                                                    (synth solo - over the same chords as the verse and chorus)
you dont know the Pseudonyms i assume you dont know the Pseudonyms i assume (verso)
For you
                                                                    I may be lonelier now but im happy oh no honest. aint only alone but what would we talk about anyway
(verso)
                                                                    I'd never resort to kissing your photo, honest. i just had to
Are you happier now that the gods are dying?
                                                                    see
                                                                    how the chemicals taste their honey
Or do you dream of heston with omnicient beard
                                                                    (refrão)
                                                                                    F G
You should be happier now, with noone to pray to
                                                                    We ride together we ride together we die together
Or would you love to break your knees from beggin and prayin (solo)
(refrão)
                                                                    (refrão 3x)
                                     G
```

Acordes

