

Fresno - Broken By You (part. McFly)

```
Seems to me that all the songs are all tom:
                D (forma dos acordes no tom de C )
Capostraste na 2ª casa
                                                                About you
                                                                I've been broken by you
            [Primeira Parte]
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
I never knew it was electric touch
                                                                (It's like I got another day)
Never knew I was on the run
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
Overcome by the ignorance
                                                                (It's like I got another day)
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
Overwhelmed by my innocence
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
It makes sense when it don't make sense
I'm a magnet for chaos and sex
                                                                It makes sense when it don't make sense
I'm the reason you've got no control
                                                                I'm a magnet for your chaos and sex
                                                                I'm the reason you've got no control
Of your body, of your soul
                                                                Of your body, of your soul
[Refrão]
                                                                [Refrão]
Broken by you (Broken by you)
                                                                Você me quebrou de novo (Broken by you)
I've been broken by you (Broken by you)
                                                                Você me quebrou de novo (Broken by you)
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                Parece que todas as canções que eu
Te sintonizo em todas as TV's
                                                                Escrevi são pra você
De vez em quando eu quebro a tela só pra ver
                                                                I've been broken by you (Broken by you)
Se tá lá dentro o que aprendi a amar
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
Dormindo tarde eu voltei a sonhar
                                                                (Broken by you)
Só faz sentido se perde a noção
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
Só me atrai o que me traz perigo
                                                                (Broken by you)
                                                                It's like I got another day on earth
Vá pro inferno com essa razão
                                                                (Você me quebrou) (Broken by you)
Vamos bater e eu já não tenho abrigo
[Refrão]
                                                                Você me quebrou
                                                                Você me quebrou (Broken by you)
Broken by you (Você me quebrou)
                                                                Você me quebrou (Broken by you)
I've been broken by you (Você me Quebrou)
Acordes
```