

Glen Hansard - And The Healing Has Begun

Tom: A

riff:

A D E x3

A D E

And will walk down the avenue again

A D E

And will walk down the avenue again when the healing has begun

A D E

And will walk down the avenue in style

A D E

And will walk down the avenue and will smile

A D E

And well say baby ain't it all worthwhile when the healing has begun

A D E

when the healing has begun

A D E x3

A D E (here you mute de A).

I want you to put on your pretty summer dress yeah

A D E

You can wear your Easter bonnet Sunday clothes and all the rest

A D E

And I wanna make love to you yes, yes, yes, yes when the healing has begun

A D E

A D E (but here you mute de A... again)

I want you to put on your pretty summer dress

A D E

You can wear your Easter clothes Sunday bonnet and all the rest

A D E

And I wanna make love to you yes, yes, yes, yes when the healing has begun

A D E

When the healing has begun

A D E x2

A D E (again the muting thing)

Were gonna make sweet music underneath the stars

A D E

We'll play to the violin and the two guitars

A D E

and will sit down and play for hours and hours... when the healing has begun

A D E

when the healing has begun

A D E x3

A D E

Were gonna stay out all night long

A D E

And then were gonna go out and roam across the field

A D E

Baby you know how it feels when the healing has begun

A D E

when the healing has begun

A D E

A D E (but here you mute de A... again).

I want you to put on your pretty summer dress

A D E

You can wear your Easter clothes Sunday bonnet and all the rest

A D E

And I wanna make love to you yes, yes, yes, yes, yes when the healing has begun

A D E x3

And well walk down the avenue again

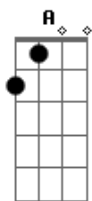

A D E

And well walk down the avenue again and the healing has begun

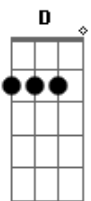

A D E x2

you end on A
