

Gustavo Bertoni - Old Ghosts, New Skin

```
I?m sure you?ll find a way
                             tom:
                Fm (forma dos acordes no tom de Em )
Capostraste na 1ª casa
                                                                 When this whole thing ends
                                                                 Call up your best friend
            Step outside your door
                                                                 Tell him how you?ve been
Find yourself a map
                                                                 Schedule your next trip
No one?s here to laugh at you
                                                                 Make sure you go far
    Oxygen is free
                                                                 Go far to go deep
And you were given legs
                                                                 Fall in love again
Go somewhere you?ve never been
                                                                 This time with yourself
   You're caught in a maze
                                                                 Don?t swallow your regret
So put on your best shoes
I'm sure you'll find a way
                                                                  These voices
When this whole thing ends
                                                                  I?m hearing
Call up your best friend
                                                                  Old ghosts I?ve been keeping
Tell him how you?ve been
                                                                  Come up to me
Schedule your next trip
                                                                  I?m ready
                 Am7
Make sure you go far
                                                                  Can?t you see?
Don?t swallow your regret
                                                                 I?m ready!
                                                                  Can?t you see?
    Your clothes all on the ground
                                                                 I?m ready!
Your breath the only sound
                                                                 ( Em D C Am ) ( Em D C7 C Am )
The silence that precedes the storm
    I see it in your eyes
                                                                               D
                                                                 Don?t swallow your regret
This wild and bright green
                                                                    Step outside your door
A thirst for greater sights unseen
                                                                 Find yourself a map
    Carry on, no fear
                                                                 No one?s here to laugh at you
Look at you, grown up
```

Acordes

