

Hayley Williams - Dream Girl In Shibuya

```
Under fluorescent lights (ah-ah-ah)
                tom:
                                                                              F7M
                                                                But I went to Takeshita Street
       r
                                                                F7M
Every now and then in a far off land
                                                                Came back more kawaii
Familiar but foreign, a liminal feeling
                                                                We could pretend it's our first time
                                                                I wait for you (in seven-two-three-oh)
I know you know me now like the back of your hand
But can I still get your heart reeling?
                                                                In the hotel room (I can still be your)
                                                                                   G
                                                               Dream girl come true (come on in)
Should've stayed a mystery
Sipping on Japanese whiskey
                                                                      F7M Dm C
                                                                In Shibuya
In the lobby bar (ah-ah-ah)
                                                                F7M
                                                                Get to the seventh floor
       F7M
I could say I gotta leave
                                                                Get underneath me
                                                                I'm always waiting for a
But let's not let that come between us
Would it make you want me more?
                                                               Knock on my door, baby
I wait for you (in seven-two-three-oh)
                                                               Now hold me closer
                G
In the hotel room (I can still be your)
                                                                Watching an anime
                   G
Dream girl come true (come on in)
                                                                Can always come here
     F7M
                                                                Could always just stay
           Dm C
In Shibuya
                                                                I wait for you (in seven-two-three-oh)
Just my silhouette pressed against this view (get to the seventh floor)
                                                                In the hotel room (I can still be your)
                                                                F7M
I wonder do you miss when having me felt brand new? (Get to my Dream girl come true (come on in)
                                                                     F7M Dm C
                                                                In Shibuya
An elevator ride, slowest of your life (get to the seventh
                                                                F7M
                                                                I wait for you (in seven-two-three-oh)
Can you feel how your heart's beating?
                                                                In the hotel room (I can still be your)
Hate that you've already seen
                                                                Dream girl come true (come on in)
                                                                     F7M Dm C
                                                                In Shibuya
Every bad side of me
```

Acordes

