

Hers - Harvey

Said "Harvey let me be the one to say, I wouldn't dream this any other way"

Intro:
                                                              [Pre-chorus]
                                                              (Yeah I get it, you wanna know)
                                                                        Bh
                                                              (Who he is, where we go)
[Verse 1]
                                                                        Bb7
                                                              (Yeah I get it, you wanna see)
          Bb7

                                      Α
Some people think I'm acting worse for wear, suffice to say
                                                              (What it is, him and me)
this is a quaint affair

But no one really knows me like Harvey, and once you've met him I'm sure you'll agree
[Pre-chorus]
                                                             Harvey, nobody knows what I see, nobody knows
(Yeah I get it, you wanna know)
                                                              I'm waiting, waiting for you to call
          Bb
(Who he is, where we go)
          Bb7
                                                              Harvey, nobody knows what I see, everyone thinks
(Yeah I get it, you wanna see)
                                                              I'm crazy, crazy for you, oh boy
          Bb
(What it is, him and me)
                                                              [Interlude]
                                                              [Bridge]
                                                             Harvey, nobody knows what I see, everyone thinks
                                                              I'm crazy, crazy for you, oh boy
Harvey, nobody knows what I see, nobody knows
                                                              Harvey, nobody knows what I see, nobody knows
I'm waiting, waiting for you to call
                                                             I'm waiting, waiting for you to call
Harvey, nobody knows what I see, everyone thinks
                                                              Harvey, nobody knows what I see, everyone thinks
I'm crazy, crazy for you, oh boy
                                                             I'm crazy, crazy for you, oh boy
[Verse 2]
                                                              [Final]
