                                                                 And you're walking around in a garden I called my home
[Primeira Parte]
I was watering your flowers
                                                                 But I'm not calling
                                                                 Don't say I've changed
You stood in my garden
                                                                       G
And stamped your feet
                                                                 You took the trees and the air they gave
But that?s okay see
                                                                 All my breath now I need to save
                                                                 So I'm not calling
See, it was already dying
                                                                 F
No, I'm not calling
I hadn?t been for a while to give it what it needs
                                                                 \begin{array}{c} & \text{ C} \\ \text{Don't say I've changed} \end{array}
                                                                 You took the trees and the air they gave
You grew yourself with my love
                                                                 All my breath now I need to save
                                                                 So I'm not calling
And you're walking around in a garden I called my home
                                                                 No I'm not
[Refrão]
But I'm not calling
                                                                 [Pontel
Don't say I've changed
You took the trees and the air they gave
                                                                  It's just your face that I adore
All my breath now I need to save
                                                                 And I just can't miss you anymore
So I'm not calling
                                                                 It's not fair
No, I'm not calling
                                                                 It's not fair
Don't say I've changed
                                                                  It's just your face that I adore
You took the trees and the air they gave
                                                                 And I just can't miss you anymore
All my breath now I need to save
                                                                 It's not fair
So I'm not calling
                                                                 It's not fair
[Segunda Parte]
                                                                 But I'm not calling
And I opened the door
                                                                 Don't say I've changed
You snuck around the corner
                                                                 You took the trees and the air they gave
$\mathsf{F}$ \mathsf{C}$ And threw a seed in my garden
                                                                 All my breath now I need to save
                                                                 So I'm not calling
So how
                                                                 No, I'm not calling
And how do I forget you
                                                                 Don't say I've changed
When you grow within me and I can't rip you out
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                 You took the trees and the air they gave
                                                                 All my breath now I need to save
You grew yourself with my love
                                                                 So I'm not calling
