Verse:
1. Was many years ago that I left home and came this way
                                                                Riff 5
2.Night and day I scan horizon sea and sky
                                                                Riff 1(Fade out)
3. One hundred years have gone and men again they came that way
                                                                Lvrics:
I was a young man full of hopes and dreams
                                                                Was many years ago that I left home and came this way
My spirit wanders endlessly
                                                                I was a young man, full of hopes and dreams
                                                                But now it seems that all is lost and nothing gained to find the answer to the mystery Someimes things ain't what they seem
But now it seems to me that all is lost and nothing gained
                                                                No brave new world, no brave new world
Until the day will dawn and friends from home discover why
                                                                No brave new world, no brave new world
They found his body lying where it fell that day
                                                                Night and day I scan horizon, sea and sky
                                                                My spirit wanders endlessly sometimes things ain't what they seem
                                                                until the day will dawn and friends from home discover why
