Izaki Lima - Above The Sky

```
Abm
                                                                                    Dbm
                                                              I am talking about the meaning
                          tom:
               Е
                                                            Α
                                                                                  Gbm
                                                              The mysteries of the Universe
           [Refrão]
                                                                     Dbm
                                                            Abm
                                                             All those feelings
         Gbm
                      Α
                                                                                 Gbm
F
                                                            Α
Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
                                                             Inside your brain, inside your heart
F.
         Gbm A
Bright sunshine on me
                                                            F .
                                                                     Gbm
                                                                                   Α
       Gbm
                                                            Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
Е
                      Α
Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
                                                                  Gbm A
                                                            E
                                                            Bright sunshine on me
F.
        Gbm A
Bright sunshine on me
                                                            F.
                                                                    Gbm
                                                                                   Α
                                                            Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                   Gbm A
                                                            F
                                                            Bright sunshine on me
                   Dbm
Abm
 If the night has the silver Moon
                                                            [Terceira Parte]
                   Gbm
 The morning has the golden Sun
                                                            Abm
                                                                    Dbm
            Dbm
                                                             Oh, my dear
Abm
 They're all pretty
                                                                               Gbm
                                                            Α
                         Gbm
                                                              Can't you be less beautiful
Α
 Like your eyes have their on neon
                                                            Abm
                                                                                      Gbm
                                                             For sure the stars don't bleed
                                                            Α
F
         Gbm
                                                                                Gbm
                      Α
                                                             And I don't want to make you cry
Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
Е
        Gbm A
Bright sunshine on me
                                                            F .
                                                                      Gbm
                                                                                   Α
                                                            Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
F
       Gbm
                      Α
Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
                                                                    Gbm A
                                                            F .
F
        Gbm A
                                                            Bright sunshine on me
Bright sunshine on me
                                                                    Gbm
                                                                                   Α
                                                            E
                                                            Above the sky there are stars, there are stars
[Segunda Parte]
                                                            F
                                                                  Gbm A
                                                            Bright sunshine on me
```

Acordes

