Jack Johnson - They Do, They Don't

O riff segue a música toda, fora nos refrões, onde deve ser usada batida normal. Riff Intro: Riff 2x Tied down against the tracks Screaming in silent black and white Why'd you trust us we are such villains Bb We would tell ourselves anything we want to hear if we are willing To listen is to learn Then too much is what we deserve And how come when we say that we do we don't Bb Pray to anybody you want we won't, oh oh oh oh oh oh Refrão But if we're the ones to blame then the fruit Shouldn't taste so good we were used Used to thinking we got nothing to lose We're losing everything but the truth Is walking straight into a roadblock ending left here bending Your point of view was chosen by the serpent's ruse

With all it's do's and don'ts The future is an empty promise Unconcerned and so tired of waiting We could sell it wooden horses full of nightmares and when they open This all might recompose There's no going back to the good old days it's just a phase bring in some new life Bb Archaism is a dusty road leading us back to nowhere Refrão But if we're the ones to blame then the fruit Shouldn't taste so good we were used Used to thinking we got nothing to lose We're losing everything but the truth Is walking straight into a roadblock ending left here bending Your point of view was chosen by the serpent's ruse oh oh oh oh oh oh Riff 2: 2x How come when we say we do we don't Ah Bh How come when we say we will we won't
