

Jamie Scott - When Will I See Your Face Again

```
When will you touch my life again (ummm um),
                                                                When will i breathe you in again,
   Intro: Gm F (2x)
(verse)
                                                                I think i love youuu, will i see your face again,
Here i am, everyday,
                                                                (bridge)
Since you said, you'd come again,
                                                                                                                     Dm7
                                                                You know that all my life i've been waaaiting,
But it's not fair, cos you're not here,
                                                                                          G7
                                                                Waiting for sooome, someone like you to love me,
I wait in vain, but nothing has chaaanged,
I'm a flower, soaking in the rain,
                                                                You can't come by like an angel, into my life,
                                                                And then fly awaaaay, flyyyyyy away,
If i could wish one thing, i'd hear you call my name,
                                                                Oh honey, cos i, uh baby, ba ba doo yeah, ohh ohhhh,
(chorus)
So when will i see your face again,
                                                                Sing, i've only seen youuu, oh, i said, uh huh, i said i said,
                                                                yeah (woo)
When will you touch my life again (ohh yeah),
                                                                (chorus)
When will i breathe you in again (ha),
                                                                When will i see your face again (i wanna see you once in my life),
I think i love youuu...will i see your face again,
                                                                When will you touch my life again, (wanna see you twice in my (2nd verse)
                                                                Gm
Little thing, like the rain coming,
                                                                When will i breathe you in again (ohhh),
She looked at me a certain kind of way,
                                                                I think i love youuu, will i see your face again,
Tell me girl, where are you nowww,
                                                                I said, see bap pa da doo ba ba (ohhh),
'cos i don't know how much longer i can waaait,
                                                                Bap ba doo yeah, that's what we do yeaahhh (ohh),
I'm a dreamer, waiting for the sun,
                                                                                 Gm
                                                                When will iii see your face again my friend,
When you're coming in, i know my life's begun,
Tell me girl...
                                                                Oh yeah, i think you gotta let me know yeah,
                                                                Ohh yeahhh..
(chorus)
When will i see your face again (ohh yeaaah),
                                                                Gm C F (5x)
```

Acordes

