

Jason Mraz - Sleeping To Dream

```
Tom: C
                                                                  oh yes i am (verse 2)
(intro) (A D A D A D A D
                                                                  I found my self in the rich hairs, your eyes, your lips, your (verse 1)
                                                                  hair, your every where, out there I'm Dreaming to sleeping next to you
                                                                  But i woke up in the ditches, I hit the light and I thought I'm Feeling like a lost little boy in a brand new town I'm counting my sheep and that each one that passes is another here, but you were no where, oh love, but no were at home ashes and they all fall down pre-chorus
                                                                               C (pre-chorus)
                                                                                     Am7
                                                                  As a lay me back to sleep,
           C Am7
As I lay me down to night this love i pray me that i can keep
          Am
I close my eyes, what a beautiful sight (chorus)
                                                                  I'm sleeping to dream about you, and im so damn tired
I'm sleeping to dream about you, and im so damn tired
                                                                  of having to live without you, but i dont mind
of having to live without you, but i dont mind
                                                                  I'm sleeping to dream about you, and I'm so tired.
\ensuremath{\mathrm{I'm}} sleeping to dream about you, and \ensuremath{\mathrm{I'm}} so tired,
                                                                  I'm so tired
```

Acordes

