

Josh Thomas - My Love Mine All Mine (feat. Christian Rewrite)

Will shine, will shine, will shine
                tom:
                Am
                                                                Salt and light of the earth
Intro: Am Dm
                                                                Loving You
God created light
                                                                  Db
                                                                Is something worth
King of glory
                                                                More than the silver
Reign on high
                                                                More than gold
Here before and after me
                                                                I will shine
Shining down on me
                                                                To make You known
God, show me how to Cause my God
Love them the way You do
                                                                His light, his light
Thought I would die
                                                                Makes me
Now I see you
                                                                Shine so bright
I was blind
                                                                    Am
                                                                Everyone around the world
But now the truth is
                                                                   Db
                                                                Will see that
My God
                                                                My light will shine
Db
His light, his light
                                                                Will shine
Makes me
                                                                Nothing in this world
Dm
Shine so bright
                                                                Could set me free
Everyone around the world
                                                                But my God
Will see that
                                                                His light, his light, his light
My light
                                                                Light
