                                                                              Αm
                                                               And there's just no turning back,
See i never thought that i could walk through fire.
                                                               When your hearts under attack,
I never thought that i could take the burn.
                                                                       G
                                                                Gonna give everything i have,
I never had the strength to take it higher,
                                                                Cause this is my destiny.
Until i reached the point of no return.
                                                                 i will never say never! (i will fight)
And there's just no turning back,
                                                                                       G Am
                                                                 i will fight till forever! (make it right)
When your hearts under attack,
                                                                 whenever you knock me down,
Gonna give everything i have,
                                                               I will not stay on the ground.
It's my destiny.
                                                               Pick it up,
 i will never say never! (i will fight)
                                                               Pick it up,
                     G Am
 i will fight till forever! (make it right)
                                                               Pick it up,
                                                               Pick it up up up,
 whenever you knock me down,
                                                               And never say never.
I will not stay on the ground.
                                                                 i will never say never! (i will fight)
Pick it up,
                                                                 C G Am

Pick it up,

                                                                 whenever you knock me down,

Pick it up up up,
                                                               I will not stay on the ground.
And never say never.
                                                               Pick it up,
