

Kami Kehoe - COME DOWN

You know I can't look at you again
               tom:
                                                              Only makes it harder to forget
       F Dm F Am
Leave me
                                                               I can't remember anything you said
          Dm
I know this isn't easy
                                                               'Cause baby, you don't wanna understand why
           Dm
But please believe me
                                                               Seeing you isn't healthy
We're better off not speaking
                                                               And we both know this ain't helping
                                                               'Cause it hurts to leave you every time
We've lost all of our feelings
But I know it's hard
                                                               If I'm coming down, down, down, don't rescue me
    Am
'Cause I'm in your head
                                                               (Don't rescue me)
If I'm coming down, down, down, don't rescue me (rescue me)
                                                              Don't want you around, you can't protect me (you can't protect
                    Dm
Don't want you around, you can't protect me (protect me)
                           Bb
You know I'm still hurting, but I deserve it I hope you find
                                                               You know I'm still hurting, but I deserve it I hope you find
Somebody else to come around
                                                               Somebody else to come around
To forget me
                                                              To forget me
(Bb Dm C F)
                                                               (Bb Dm C F)
Will you forget me?
                                                              Will you forget me?
Oh, will you forget me?
                                                              Oh, will you forget me?
Oh, yeah
                                                              Oh, will you forget me?
