

Katy Nichole - I Hope You Stay

If nobody said this tom:
                Eb (forma dos acordes no tom de D )
                                                                 Then I'll be one to say
Capostraste na 1º casa
You've been through hell and back
                                                                 I hope you stay
You've given all you have
                                                                 I hope you see the way
And you're sure you've reached the end
                                                                 You light up every room that you walk into
'Cause hope comes but it never lasts
                                                                 If only saw you the way I do
                                                                 Then I think you?d stay
You've cried every tear you can Heaven knows everywhere you've been
                                                                 And you?d see the way you?re loved and how much you matter
You're standing out on the edge
                                                                 If only you knew it was gonna get better
                                                                 Day by day
D A Bm G
Hesitating but you're giving in
If nobody said this
                                                                 I hope you stay
Then I'll be one to say
                                                                 Pain says you won't get through
                                                                 Shame says that it's just you
I hope you stay
I hope you see the way
                                                                 But I've been there
                  Bm
                                                                          Bm G
                                                                 Yeah it's me too
You light up every room that you walk into
If only you saw you the way I do
                                                                            D
                                                                 So I hope you stay
Then I think you'd stay
                                                                 I hope you see the way
And you'd see the way you're loved and how much you matter
                                                                 You light up every room that you walk into
If only you knew it was gonna get better
                                                                 If only you saw you the way I do
Day by day
                                                                 Then I think you'd stay
I hope you stay
You've fought behind closed doors
You can't do this anymore
                                                                 Day by day
And you think that you're alone
                                                                 Day by day
But I promise you're not alone
                                                                 I hope you stay
